

Dear high school graduates, dear new students,

By now, there are around 1,000 dual study programmes in Germany with almost 70,000 students enrolled. 95 percent of future academics see practical relevance as the main reason to look for an alternative to traditional university studies. At the same time, cooperation with companies such as CLINTWORLD already offers financial security during your academic studies and a smooth transition into professional life.

CLINTWORLD has been supporting dual study programmes since 2011 and works intensely with the University of Applied Sciences Wedel. Through this, we combine one of the best university study programmes in northern Germany with practical experience in a company. This approach is vital for CLINTWORLD as a highly specialised supplier of software in the telecommunications industry.

Our software Clintview solves demanding business cases for international corporations. One of our biggest customers is Swisscom, the market leader for telecommunication services in Switzerland - another reason to think about a dual study programme at CLINTWORLD: In addition to the sound professional training, we also offer our students an international perspective as well as responsibility in projects from an early stage and customer assignments on site.

Why do we do this? Without our own highly qualified junior staff, we can hardly defend our pole position in specialised markets such as telecommunications. We are therefore looking for motivated and talented people who are enthusiastic about complex interrelations and optimal IT solutions in a medium-sized company and who will continue our success story with us

–Wolfgang Klotzki, Managing Director

The University of Applied Sciences

Renowned – Accredited

CLINTWORLD has deliberately chosen the University of Applied Sciences Wedel as its partner for the dual study programmes. Since being founded, the university has stood for excellent teaching at a high level. The Centre for Higher Education Development (CHE) regularly awards top marks to the study programmes of the UAS Wedel. Above all, the high practical relevance and the excellent equipment of the university should be emphasised.

At the same time, Wedel University of Applied Sciences promotes individual motivation through intensive support, a pleasant learning atmosphere and a cooperative approach towards students. CLINTWORLD is highly committed to this approach. In addition, all degrees obtained at UAS Wedel have been accredited.

Business Management

Bachelor – Master

The consecutive degree programme in Business Management leads to a Bachelor of Science degree after eight semesters and to a Master's degree after a further four semesters. The specialisation in marketing is particularly recommended.

Since 2004, the Business Management programme at the University of Applied Sciences Wedel has also been accredited by the Foundation for International Business Administration Accreditation (FIBAA).

Information Management

Bachelor – Master

The interdisciplinary degree programme in Information Management leads to a Bachelor of Science degree after nine semesters and to a Master's degree after a further three semesters. Particularly valuable: the teaching of software development methods.

The Information Management programme has been accredited by the Accreditation, Certification and Quality Assurance Institute (ACQUIN) since 2005.
