What you will do

- Support the feature delivery pipeline (e.g. gather requirements, write tickets, support with decisions and implementation, ensure release quality, and measure the outcome of changes)
- Work data-driven, based on reports and analyses for deriving actions that are truly oriented towards our customers' needs
- Be part of the international product team and provide features to an audience of millions of users
- With growing experience, take over responsibilities for own projects to optimize our products
- Work in an agile and international environment based on Scrum and Kanban methods

Who you are

- Enrolled student (or gap year)
- Analytical and efficient way of thinking
- Fast understanding of complex tasks with many variables and high uncertainty
- Solution-oriented and out-of-the-box thinking
- Driven to take over responsibility
- Fluent English skills (spoken & written)

Nice to have:

- cursory knowledge in software development and agile methods

- Basic knowledge/understanding in programming

What you will get on top

- Grow together with one of the fastest growing eCommerce companies in Europe
- Flexible working times
- 40% discount on our online shop
- Fresh fruits + drinks everywhere
- Language courses (German & English)
- Free sports courses & reduced price for gym membership
- Subsidized public transportation ticket
- Free choice of hardware and operating system (Mac, Windows, Linux) also for private usage
- State-of-the-art tech stack running on AWS
- Modern office in the city center of Hamburg
- International working environment and English as company language
- Company flats (subject to availability)
- Agile work environment (MOVE) and cross-functional teams
- Free access to Germany's greatest developer conference code.talks
- German health insurance included
- Help in relocation and VISA process
